

How are you developing your self management skills?

youthemployment.org.uk/young-professional-training/

Self management is all about being organised, prepared and on time. Be your own (tough but fair) boss. Figure out your priorities and aim to do things as well as you can, even when someone isn't watching over you. These are useful skills you can grow over a whole lifetime but there is no better time to start than right now!
